PREFACE.

WORKS of this kind are always acceptable to the Public, becauſe they are both uſeful and amuſing. The great addition lately made to the PEERAGE rendered ſuch a publication particularly neceſſary: indeed the former ones are become ſo very imperfect, that they would rather miſlead than inform the Reader. It is alſo proper to obſerve, that the whole Set of Arms here preſented to the Public are printed upon new plates; they are carefully corrected, elegantly executed, and brought down to the preſent time.

For the information of the Engliſh Reader, a Tranſlation of the MOTTOS is added, in which if any errors appear, notice of them will be thankfully received, and attended to by the Publiſher,

GEORGE KEARSLY.

April, 1778.
